GAS CRISIS IN CALGARY

SHALL WE STILL HAVE GAS

T IS conceded that the citizens of Calgary want the convenience of natural gas for heating, cooking and other domestic purposes. They have had natural gas so long that, while perhaps they do not value it as they otherwise would, still they would not like to be without it.

Light a match, turn the tap, and the flame is there to do your bidding. There is no dirt and no labor yor sixty, or seventy-five cents a thousand cubic feet it is chester than any other for light and the formal product of the control of the contr

Shall we continue to have gas or shall we have to turn to other fuels because natural gas is not to be had?

The Calgary Gas Company wants the present emisumers, as well as all other citizens, to understand clearly that it has no alternative in the premises. It is not bluffing, it is not intimidating, it is not exaggerating. It makes no statement that is not capable of proof.

It is faced by a condition over which it has no control—a situation which it cannot hope to over-ne unless it is given the co-operation of the citizens.

If gas is to be sought and found in commercial quantities, money must be secured for this purpose. The company had a loss of $35,000 last year. It is faced with a loss of $355,000 this year. Obviously it cannot continue operations with losses mounting to and beyond $355,000 a.p.r. It might conserve its funds by not drilling, but the fact is that it has been drilling with every energy at its disposal since 1913. It drilled nine wells in the Bow Island field and not one produced commercial gas. It drilled eight in other fields and only one was a producer. That is to say, it got one producing well out of seventeen that have been drilled.

THE INCREASING COST

FEARS AGO it could sink a well for appro $50,000 to sink a well without taking into account that the increase in cost over the early operatilatter than the former increase.

Yet what the company is asking is only an increase of 43 per cent. on what already is a very low rate for natural

If its present wells were inexhaustible or if wells could be sunk as cheaply and with the same certain ccess as in 1908, when sixteen wells were sunk every one proving a producer, the company could proces old basis.

the old basis.

WELLS NOT INEXHAUSTIBLE

But wells are not inexhaustible. They hall in time. The company's biggest well has gone down from 30,000,000 feet a day to 3,000,000, and is still decreasing. The Bow Hand field is giving out. New fields must be explored, and this is an expensive operation. The company spent 82,60,000 in 1918-1929 for drilling; it spent 4300,000 in 1918-1920 for the same purpose and $160,000 will be similarly spent for 1920-1920.

And the sypply of gas has decreased from 3,315,000,000 feet in 1918-1919 to 2,200,000 feet for 1920-1921 final year.

books and its transactions and especially upon its field work which is the supreme test of its good faith in respect to its relations with the citizens of Calgary.

The company is not going to ask for the confidence of the people on its mere assertion that it is making a fair proposal.

It is going to submit to the city as a municipality and to the citizens as individuals, a record of its conduct and of its development projects, accomplained and pleaned, and on-the strength of what is revealed and in the light of the plain and inevitable consequence of the lack of support and co-operation, it will urge the people to consider the stutation from every suple. These give their decisions

THE COMPANY IS ABSOLUTELY FRANK AS TO ITS POSITION AND AS TO THE FACTORS DETERMINING ITS FUTURE OPERA-TIONS AND ITS FATE---THE PEOPLE WILL BE THE JUDGES.

WHAT THE CRISIS DEMANDS

THE CALGARY GAS COMPANY IS ASKING NOTHING UNREASONABLE. IT IS ASKING NOTHING BUT WHAT THE CRISIS DEMANDS AND JUSTIFIES. THIS IS ITS CLAIM AFTER SUBMITTING FIGURES AND RECORDS TO THE PUBLIC.

IT IS ASKING LESS AT THE INCREASED PRICES THAN ALL OTHER CITIES OUTSIDE OF ALBERTA ARE PAYING FOR GAS. IT IS ASKING AN INCREASE OF FROM 35 TO 50 CENTS AND GUARANTEES TO USE THIS

DIFFERENCE AND CONSIDERABLY MORE IN ACTIVE DRILLING OPERATIONS WITH A VIEW TO SECURING A PERMANENT SUPPLY

IF THE INCREASED RATES ARE GRANTED AND IF A PERMANENT SUPPLY IS SECURED, THE COMPANY WILL GO, ALONG WITH THE CITY, TO THE ALBERTA PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION AND ASK FOR A REVISION DOWNWARD ON A BASIS EQUITABLE TO ALL PARTIES CONCERNED.
